By Nuzia Rizkiya

Sri Lanka's apparel industry is upbeat about future growth and expansion with industry leaders emphasising the need for greater collaboration and policy consistency to sustain the sector's current growth momentum.

Stakeholders opined that the current period is an opportune time to engage in industry-wide collaboration and explore new partnerships to leverage Sri Lanka's strengths to drive growth and attract new buyers.

Commenting on the industry's current trajectory, Joint Apparel Association Forum (JAAF) Chairman Saliheen Jafferjee opined that the sector must strengthen its backward linkages to counter challenges in the geo-political landscape.

"Current tariff wars and the trade agreements being discussed are challenges, but they also present opportunities. We need to form strategies to establish Sri Lanka as a true apparel hub," Jafferjee said addressing the 14th Sri Lankan edition of CEMS-Global USA's Textile Series of Exhibitions currently taking place in Colombo. He urged that the country's reputation as an ethical manufacturer should be promoted to improve design development and brand creation.

Additionally, he emphasised the importance of strengthening backward integration in supplying capacities, which would further enhance the industry's competitiveness and sustainability.

As of 2024, the fashion and apparel sector has grown to become a pivotal contributor to the Sri Lankan economy, providing employment to over 350,000 individuals directly and up to one million indirectly. Export earnings from the sector last year surpassed US$ 4.7 billion, with apparel and manufacturing production accounting for approximately 7 percent of the country's GDP.

Sri Lanka should use its highly respected and friendly non aligned foreign policy and its unique geographical location to make Sri Lanka a regional sourcing hub for the apparel sector, said CEMS-Global USA & Asia-Pacific Group CEO S. S. Sarwar yesterday at the launch of their 14th Sri Lankan edition of its acclaimed Textile Series of Exhibitions, featuring the 12th Textex Sri Lanka 2025, 14th Colombo Yarn & Fabric Show 2025 and 47th Dye-Chem Sri Lanka 2025. These events will be held from March 13 to 15 at SLECC in Colombo 10 commencing at 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

"Today with geo politics, shifting of the globe supply chain from traditional makers and most importantly new tax being imposed on countries like China Sri Lanka apparel sector will have more appeal in the global area. With global supply chains recovering and evolving post-pandemic, the exhibition offers a unique opportunity for Sri Lankan manufacturers to reposition themselves in the international market, highlighting Sri Lanka as a competitive player in the global textile and apparel industry, contributing to economic growth and job creation.

Sri Lanka will introduce a novel and practical business event calendar to host local and international events which will benefit the local industries and others accosts said Deputy Minister of Industry and Entrepreneurship Development, Chaturanga Abeyasinghe.

He told this to 'Daily News Business' at the opening of the three day CEMS-Global USA's highly anticipated 14th Sri Lankan Edition of the Textile Series of Exhibitions. "Many local and international trade events are held in various parts of the month and the government's idea is to host these exhibitions at appropriate times," he said.

"We could use a seasonal exhibition happening in March and a similar event happening at the end of the year. What we want to suggest and plan is to streamline them in advance and have them simultaneously so that they would be more productive to both buyers and sellers as they have to travel to Colombo only once a year."
