consistency to sustain the sector's current growth momentum.

Stakeholders opined that the current period is an opportune time to engage in industry-wide collaboration and explore new partnerships to leverage Sri Lanka's strengths to drive growth and attract new buyers.

Commenting on the industry's current trajectory, Joint Apparel Association Forum (JAAF) Chairman Saliddeen Jafferje opined that the sector must strengthen its backward linkages to counter challenges in the geo-political landscape.

"Current tariff wars and the trade agreements being discussed are challenges, but they also present opportunities. We need to form strategies to establish Sri Lanka as a true apparel hub," Jafferje said addressing the 14th Sri Lankan edition of CEMS-Global USA's Textile Series of Exhibitions currently taking place in Colombo.

He urged that the country's reputation as an ethical manufacturer should be promoted to improve design development and brand creation.

Additionally, he emphasised the importance of strengthening backward integration in supplying capacities, which would further enhance the industry's competitiveness and sustainability.

As of 2024, the fashion and apparel sector has grown to become a pivotal contributor to the Sri Lankan economy, providing employment to over 350,000 individuals directly and up to one million indirectly.

Export earnings from the sector last year surpassed US$4.7 billion, with apparel and manufacturing production accounting for approximately 7 percent of the country's GDP.

CEMS-Global USA has been a leading force in the Sri Lankan apparel industry for over 14 years, showcasing the latest in textile and garment technology, and providing a platform for industry leaders to network and collaborate.

The 14th edition of the exhibition is set to run from March 13 to 15, 2025, at the Sri Lanka Exhibition and Convention Centre (SLECC) in Colombo 10.
